Decobena Organic Cotton

„To make development fit for the future means that the current generation satisfies its needs without endangering the ability of the future generation to be able to satisfy its needs.“
(Brundtland report, 1987)

This is even more true as we must not use up all resources and thereby harm the environment. Decobena Organic Cotton blankets are made of cotton which stems from controlled organic cotton cultivation. It is planted and harvested according to strictest international stipulations. Chemical substances such as pesticides, defoliation agents, artificial fertilizers are strictly forbidden as well as the cultivation of genetically modified plants. The cotton is harvested by hand and the guarantee of social standards at the producers is guaranteed.

Organic cotton is the best cotton quality from an ecological point of view. Thanks to its properties which are gentle to the skin it is ideal for textiles which have direct contact with the skin and is thus also particularly suitable for people with sensitive skin.
